

Ellen Eisenberg, PIIC Executive Director, was recently published in the International Literacy Association's (ILA) Literacy Today. The article, The Path to Progress: Instituting a Culture of Coaching this School Year, discusses how instructional coaching can be used as a vehicle for school transformation. This form of job-embedded professional development is relevant to teachers and their needs, is tied to standards, and is literacy-focused across all content areas. As a result, both adult learning and student learning improve as a literacy-rich environment is forged.
